Hi Nancy,

Mark your calendars to join other giving circles in Baltimore on November 5-7 at our first national in-person conference since 2020 in Seattle. Early bird conference registration opens May 1 so watch for our upcoming communications.

The Baltimore Program Committee announces the breakout session tracks:

- TRACK 1 - Driving Collaboration: Through our Collective Power + Leadership
- TRACK 2 - Telling Our Stories: Through Communications + Technology
- TRACK 3 - Thriving in the Future: Through Governance + Finance
- TRACK 4 - Making a Difference: Through Membership + Grantmaking

In preparation for the conference, we are sending out your membership invoices a little earlier than usual, so you can make sure to be ready for early bird registration on May 1!

Johnson Center for Philanthropy Launches The 2023 U.S. Collective Giving Landscape Research Initiative

Philanos and Philanthropy Together are proud to be part of a growing global movement of collective giving. The 2016 landscape research on giving circles found that there were 1,600 giving circles in the U.S. With so much that has changed in the world since then, we're excited to participate in the 2023 U.S. Collective Giving Landscape Research Initiative to capture the growth, diversity, and impact of collective giving groups. Make sure your circle is represented in this research study and showcase the diversity of this movement. Please take a few minutes to answer the member survey at <http://collective.giving>
